Junior Class

We began our Junior year looking forward to our Prom, class parties, and play.

Some members of the class ordered their rings and pins in December.

By the mid-year we had lost two of our classmates, Dorothy Abbott, Robert Hendershot, and Gene Sturmi.

Our spring activities kept us quite busy. On March 6 we held our Junior Dance in the school gym, which was a success. "Everybody's Getting Married" was presented by the class on the 27th of March.

At the present time final arrangements for the Junior-Senior Prom have not been completed but it is scheduled for May 8.

Class Officers

PRESIDENT ..... Carl Koontz

VICE PRESIDENT ..... Robert Winland

TREASURER ..... Jay Snell

SECRETARY ..... Carol Copley

CLASS HISTORIAN ..... Phyllis Fixler

CLASS ADVISOR ..... Miss Parks

Sophomore Class

FIRST ROW: Betty Waters, Kathleen Eckert, Germanie Roarbaugh, Alice Heighberger, Gloria Gruver, Nancy Holland, Audrey Bolton, Barbara Squires, Betty Hartman.

ABSENT: Richard Brown.

The Sophomore class is one of the largest classes in the high school this year. We were sorry to lose Gloria Bishop and Alois Ann Rhode but we also welcomed two members, Barbara Squires from Pennsylvania and Jack Frost from Kenton.

We have had three kinds of class parties so far this year. A social party at Charles Wagoner's, a roller skating party at Fixler's, and a theater party at the Palace in Akron.

We all fell pretty classy all decked out in our new scarlet and gray jackets.

Class officers are as follows:

Class Officers

PRESIDENT ..... Ralph Jarvis
VICE PRESIDENT ..... Harold Imhoff
SECRETARY ..... Germaine Roarbaugh
TREASURER ..... Barbara Squires
CLASS HISTORIAN ..... Alice Heighberger

Freshman Class

FIRST ROW: Mildred Hartman, Helen Andrews, Ethel Mae Swain, Mary Lou Arman, Valoyce Curtis, Jean Elrod, Joanne Gaugler, Eileen Rumpf, Laura Jean Brown, Helen Santee.

THIRD ROW: Dale Johnson, Gene Snell, Marion Wertz, Louis Schiele, Henry Neidert, Dale Winland, Carl Logan, Steven Nagy.

ABSENT: Bob Henry.

The freshman class entered there first year of high school feeling rather grown up. Most of us soon settled down after we realized we would have to study to get through.

We were pleased to welcome two more girls to our group when Joanne Gaugler from Kenmore, and Jean Elrod from Buchtel joined us. We regretted to see Jim VonGunten leave us to join Tallmadge High School.

Synopsis

The mischievous pranks of the fun loving heroine, Jane Jasper, aided by her young neighbor, Toby Simpkins, presented real comedy. Jane lives on a farm in Indiana with two of her aunts. Aunt Miranda is stern and severe, Aunt Grace is much younger and her sympathies are all with Jane.

Jane's wealthy cousin descends on the farm from Chicago, Sunbonnet Jane hopes that she will have female companionship, but Crystal Cluett resists all of her friendly jestures.

Jane befriends a young hitch-hiker and prevails her aunt to give him a place on the farm. Jane and Toby never lose an opportunity to heckle Ollie Dinklebury, spinister schoolteacher, who is smitten secretly to Jason Gouch, the meanest man in town, but all ends well with loads of fun for all.

Senior Class Will

Be it remembered that we, the Class of 1942, of Sharon High School, situated in the town of Sharon, in the County of Medina, in the State of Ohio, being in our usual unsound state of mind and memory, but mindful of the uncertainty of this life, and our approaching dismemberment, do make, publish, and declare this our last will and testament, hereby revoking all former wills made by us.

After the payment of all our just debts, funeral charges, grudges, and expenses of administration, we dispose of our estate as follows:

To our Principal, Mr. Miller, who has been our faithful guardian for this year, we give the extreme pleaure of getting rid of us. May he never have another class as trying and as stupid as this one. May he also have a long life in which to gloat over the superiority of the next generation of pupils over ours. To Mr. Miller also we bequeath our share of pencil marks on the school walls and our equity in every stray cat and dog which had encamped on the school property during the past year.

To Mr. Leach, our Athletic Coach, we bequeath all sprains, bruises, ruptures, broken noses, teeth, and leg-cuts, kicks, and black eyes, that we, personally will not be around to take after graduation. To Mr. Leach, we also will the school gymnasium and athletic field, which we do not now need and, furthermore, which we do not own. We hope he will have many successful athletic teams now that we are going. Without us, anything may be possible.

To Miss Parks, instructor of American Literature and Public Speaking, we endow our liberal supply of slang and misspelled words. With it we offer the free advice that such slang is only appropriate when accompanied by a large chew of gum. May she master both arts during the coming years.

To Mr. Waltz, our skillful teacher of mathematics, we give and bequeath every bad word uttered in our hopeless attempt to master algebra and geometry. With his natural ability added to the possession of our united vocabularies, he should be able to make mathematical wizards of all his future mathematics pupils.

To Mr. Thrall, our liguistic Shorthand teacher, we give the magnificient collection of translations we have so laboriously written into all the school Shorthand books. His future classes will seem smarter with less effort then we expended, although we do doubt their ability to expend less effort.

To Miss Shallcross, our skillful teacher of Home Economics and Physical Education, we leave her with the hope that she will not have so many complaining gym students next year and that there will be more enthusiasm and cooperation toward girls' rules in the coming years.

To Mr. Warren, our Agriculture teacher, we thank and hope in the years to come all the success in life. The wonderful cooperation with the boys in the orchard, "The apples we shall miss next year, that 'Delicious taste'," the F. F. A. shall have another couple bushels to sell next year since we, the Seniors, will not be here to dispose of them.

To Mr. Trachsel, the Senior Girls' Prince Charming, we leave the three "sweet potatoes" (IMK, ZD, WH), "two mesquiteers" (DD, HB), "two misketeers" (HS, MS) of the Senior Class.

To the Junior Class, we the Senior Class of 1942, leave and bequeath our seats in the Senior room, including such as our initals as are inscribed upon the desks, erasers, pencils, spitballs, pieces of chalk and cuds of gum which we neglected to remove in the haste of our departure. May these small tokens help them to while away a year of Senior learning as they have us.

We also are pleased to leave to the Junior Class our personality and ability to get along with others.

To the Sophomore Class, we the Senior Class of 1942, leave to them (in all modesty) our good looks, although Coach Leach has stated that his Sophomores are very good looking, out side observers are inclined to disagree. To the Sophomore Class, we also bequeath such grudges as the faculty of this school may still hold against us for our sins of commission and omission. May they bear the brunt of these grudges in a meek and humble spirit to which they have not already become accustomed.

To the Freshman Class, we have nothing left to bequeath, but a lot of good advice. Do not study too hard, for it will make you sick and unhealthy, and no future wants a sickly graduate any more than a horsethief desires to take an unsound horse. If you would obtain good grades without study, then laugh heartily at all your teachers' jokes even though you are hearing them for the hundredth time, ask your teachers questions about the lessons after class, and give each of them a red apple every morning, and a valentine on February 14th. Always carry a lot of books with you, to and from school and classes but never look within their covers. The inside pages of your school books are laden with microbes from the contamination use of former classes. Whenever you are caught in any offense look very scared and sorry and your punishment will be light. If you will obey all these rules then three years from now you will be occupying these places of solemnity and dignity with a minimum of effort and wear and tear.

I, Paul Andrew, wish to turn over my wonderful "jazz band" to Steve Nagy to be kept in a good swinging condition.

I, Harriet Becker, wish to leave my "dancing ability" to Nancy Holland.

I, Zelma Daily, would like to leave my "nonchalant manner" to Carl Koontz.

I, Doris Dustin, bequeath my "wonderful, most extensive vocabulary" to Phoebe Hollopeter in hopes that it will be of more use to her.

I, Walter Farnsworth, bequeath my "graceful walk" to Walter Johnson.

I, Ray Frase, a senior with a wonderful talent would like to will my "ability" to sing to Richard Schlayer.

I, Wilma Hollopeter, wish to leave to Barbara Squires my "sunny disposition."

I, Ila Mae Keller, the senior who has the ability to speak in conversation or debate, wishes to leave this dramatic ability to Tony Kammer.

I, Jack McBrayer, will my "Willies" to the ninth grade boys who are just stepping out and can not use the family car because of the tires.

I, Robert Schmelzer, bequeath my "love for Freshman girls" to Gene Baird, since he also thinks the Freshmen girls are good looking.

I, Myron Schmid, wish to leave my "curly hair," which the Sophomores notice so well, to Henry Sisler.

I, Robert Simmons, will to Maynard Chrisman, my "height and ability to play the drums" as his partner in Band and Orchestra.

I, Walter Smith, bequeath my "good looks" and my ability to work and go to school to Ralph Jarvis.

I, Helen Stonebrook, bequeath my "dimples" to a person who thinks dimples are nice to have, to Carol Copley.

I, Mary Swain, wish to leave the love of "dark eye lashes and eye brows" as they create a shyness for boys, to Phyllis Fixler.

I, Carl Vanke, wish to will my "ability to carry a day full of subjects and still court a beautiful girl," to Carl Nagy.

Besides these gifts of an ordinary nature, we leave, of our own free will, our blessing upon this school and its teachers, fond memories of our pleasant four years spent in association with these teachers and pupils of the school, and our pledge of friendship and cooperation in all school activities of the future. May Sharon High School prosper and grow with the years.

All the rest of our property, whatsoever and wheresoever, and of what nature, kind and quality, after the payment of our debts and funeral expenses, we leave to our Sharon School Board. May they grow rich and independent from the proceeds.

In Testimony whereof, we hereunto set our hand and seal, and declare this to be our last will and testament, this twenty-eighth day of May, in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and forty-two.

Senior Class History

The sun shone brightly upon an even two dozen husky lads and lassies on an early September a. m., busy putting the finishing touches on a small craft. With a lusty "Yo Ho," Captain Schmelzer announced the completion of all preparations and that everyone wishing to set sail should clambor aboard. All having found places on deck, Captain Schmelzer made a short speech with the eloquent fluency of which only Bob, I mean Captain Schmelzer is capable. After which one of the "Sweet Potatoes" otherwise Wilma Hollopeter was invited to Christen the ship, which she did gracefully banging the champagne against the bow amidst the deafening cheers of all spectators. Soon the ship had been launched and was gliding smoothly over a tranquil sea.

All did not remain smooth for long however, for very soon the ship was pitching and tossing about riding the mountainous waves surmounting each tempestous foaming crest and smoothness comparable to a ride in McBrayer's Willies. It was at this time that Schmelzer noticed that sharks were following the craft assumed by the imaginative Captain to be intent of consuming his passengers. Imagine his surprise to find his prize passengers Ila Keller, Walter Smith, Myron Schmid, Paul Andrew, Mary Swain, Mildred Cook, Helen Oplinger, and Don Stewart lavishing their suppers on the hungry sharks. In watching them so agreed with them so heartily that he himself became so violently sick that he had to be thrown to the sharks. However within a few hours the most of them became reconciled to the idea of retaining their digestibles that we were able to continue our journey. About noon of the first day we landed at a port to pick up a few supplies that were awaiting us there and one of our passengers found on the dock a petite brunette, by the name of Zelma Dailey, this passenger, Jack McBrayer by name would not continue on the journey unless we allowed him to take this lovely young thing with him. Since she would not greatly overload our ship because of any excess weight, we permitted him to take her along if he would promise that at the next port no such trouble would reoccur. With his promise duly made, signed sealed and witnessed by our ships secretary, Helen Stonebrook, we again set sail on Freshman sea. We all enjoyed ourselves immensely in the next few hours and time passed quickly.

Then the next morning we passed thru Sophomore straits and headed into the sea of puppy love. We had not gone far when we noticed a head bobbing up and down in the water and on coming closer we noticed a man swimming frantically toward us lest this sea of puppy love engulf him. We hurriedly dropped anchor and let down the one life boat and hauled in the distracted person who proved to be none other than Bob Simmons, who vowed that never again would he swim in such a tempestous sea. Near the end of the second day our Captain having breathed already too much of this romantic air noticed as we passed by an island a fair damsel waving. He would have it only as a signal of distress and so to quiet his fears put in to the island. As we neared the island however, we soon noticed that this person was not in distress by any means, nor did she need any assistance but our noble Captain meant to assist anyway if it be at all possible, since she was beautiful, in fact entrancingly so. We landed on the small island and the natives it was learned were enjoying a May Day Festival and we were invited to stay. Our Captain reluctantly, feigned we all knew, finally agreed to remain and then he and Walter Farnsworth practically fell all over themselves waiting on her, although Schmelzer did seem to have the inside track. By the way the name of the beautiful May Queen was none other than our own Bernice Clifford, now known to us as Mrs. Everhard. These queens of the May soon have men waiting on them hand and foot.

On the third day we again set sail on the sea which we soon learned by our maps to be the Romance sea, and almost immediately we lost a passenger, Jane Hutchinson, who fell overboard admiring the seemingly quiet waters. However, we did not lose as many passengers on this sea as had been expected, perhaps we had been careful to pick ones more likely to stay with us in times like these. Of course many times we threatened to turn back as many of our passengers seemed intent on jumping overboard, but our captain would steadfastly hold us on our course. Several times we stopped to refuel and on one occasion we gathered many gems which we had fashioned into class rings. On another stop we really gorged ourselves at a banquet at which we honored some members of another ship which happened to stop at the same port. I think they were the class of "41." Finally we got under way again and entered the Finish bay which would lead us into the Graduation ocean.

It was the fourth day that we set sail on this great unknown. Many preparations were made for the oncoming journey. We made a travelog of all our past journey called the Sharonite, which would be a guide to younger and less experienced sailors. We dramatized our interpretation of modern life of the land lubber by producing "Sunbonnet Jane of Sycamore Lane," we danced, we sang and enjoyed ourselves on this the Graduation sea. Then of course as might be expected, there was the case of Leatha Rood who forgot that we were no longer on the Sea of Romance and jumped overboard. We haven't heard directly from here how the water is. Then too, we again had difficulty with little sailboats about to sink and immediately thought they should assist The Banners waving from the Distress ships were entitled the "Freshman Thraller" and "The Sophomore Leachy." Schmelzer, brave captain that he was, dove overboard and headed for the Freshman craft succeeded in getting one of the passengers before it went dwn, her name I think was Florida, or was it Gloria, anyway that's history - - - or is it? Carl, an able seaman and excellent swimmer, managed somehow to get to the floundering sophomore tub and get back with a girl, Audrey was her name. He wanted us to take her on as a passenger which we readily agreed to do under the circumstances. You would be surprised how grateful that girl was after having been rescued from that sinking ship, and although this isn't history, she sure did heap praise and affection on her deliverer.

So ended our journey to the vast ocean which still lies ahead. Into this great unknown, we step forward with the ease and confidence of men and women, fully realizing that our past journey aided and abetted by our faithful pilots, our teachers not heretofore mentioned, has prepared us for any eventuality. We wish to thank those that have contributed to our future by guiding us in our past and may our future embody their fondest dreams for us.

Senior Class Prophecy

I looked up through the hatch of my patrol plane to see fire coming out my right engine. Before I had a chance to jump I crashed. When I came to I saw white walls all around me and found the doctor to be Dr. McBrayer and his nurse, Helen Stonebrook. When I asked where I was, they told me in Miami Hospital. While recovering, an old friend, Carl Vanke, who had enlisted in the Canadian Air Force, but was on furlough, and visiting Florida, came to see me.

I then joined Carl on a short trip through the United States to find our class mates of 1942. We first flew up the Mississippi River to St. Louis where we ran into Robert Schmelzer. He told us that he was President of United Air Lines. He also told us that his secretary was Doris Dustin. We then went to the airport restaurant to find it under the proprietorship of Ila Mae Keller. We then motored northeast to Detroit, Michigan. As we were driving along we heard the siren of a policeman, who told us to pull over to the curb, whom we found to be none other than Walter Smith. Friendship proved to be no avail and Patrolman Smith lead us into court. Inside the court and back of the bench we saw Walter Farnsworth. Walter Farnsworth told us something that Walter Smith hadn't told us; Walter had married the former Harriet Becker. We then flew east to Cleveland where we landed, we saw that there were no taxis in sight, but coming down the street we noticed an ambulance. The name plate on the side read "Andrews Funeral Home." We located Paul's residence and talked to him for a while. From Cleveland we flew to Buffalo where we thought we might see the all famous dance band led by none other than our old classmate, Bob Simmons, who had changed his name for personal reasons too numerous to mention. We learned that the singing star with Bob's band was Ray Frase. From there we flew to New York City, where upon reading the New York Socialite, we saw that Wilma Hollopeter is the newly-elected debutante of the year. That night we went to the Stork Club to find the cigarette girls to be one of those "sweet potatoes," Zelma Dailey. She told us that the last member of the class is settled down for life. We visited Mary Swain and when we knocked on the door four little red heads scampered toward the door but Mary ordered them back. This completed our tour of the United States and also our location of the Senior Class of 1942.

CHEERLEADERS

Harriet Becker was our head cheerleader, succeeding Gail Wolf and Hazel Perrin last year. This is the first year for Nancy Holland and Virginia Prentiss.

Of course we're not ones to brag, but we certainly had something to cheer about. Since our undisputed football team won the mythical title and being second in the county league at basketball, we feel that we had a very successful year in our athletic division.
